The Complete Works of R. Southwell: With Life and Death (Classic Reprint) Robert Southwell

Poems of the meek and holy martyr, Robert Southwell, very few words of preface are necessary. The work has long been known and appreciated by Scholars and Critics. The Poems of Father Southwell are however eminently adapted for general use. His touching aphorisms, his sweet quaint images, should make them familiar in every christian household. The Bard of Bards, Shakspeare himself, never gave a more wholesome lesson, than is couched in these simple lines :A chance may -win, that by mischance was lost; The well that holds no great, takes little fish ;I n some things all, in all things none are crossed, Few all they need, but none have all they wish; Unmeddled joys here to no man befall, Who least hath some, who most hath never all. Let the children lisp the Poetry of Southwell, and lay it to their hearts. It has uses for this woi ld, as well as for the next.
