Nellie Brighton is a beautiful 19-year-old college student who becomes the victim of an unscrupulous defense attorney and the megalomaniac who just happens to pull his strings. Nellie's world becomes a tangled web of sex, lies and deceit masterminded by a man named Jackson Hand. Mr. Hand is the founder of Jacks & Hands, a service industry for the very rich. At $60.00 an hour with a four-hour minimum, only the top 2 or 3 percent of wage earners can afford their services, but they are well worth the expense. They are the best of the best. Some people demand perfection from the people they use and are only too pleased to hire a Jack or a Hand. The Jacks are experts in all the trades and hold licenses to oversee any of your remodeling projects as well. The Hands are gourmet cooks, tutors, seamstresses, and household organizers all rolled into one. But you know the old saying: "If it looks too good to be true, it is." Of the 24 Jacks and Hands, 12 of them share an awful secret in that they are the members of "the stable." They are a group of beautiful young people who all share the unfortunate position of having been compromised by Jackson Hand in some way, shape, or form. Be forewarned: When you employ the services of Jacks & Hands, you may be receiving more than you bargained for. Keep your eyes focused and the doors to your skeleton closets tightly secured. All is fair in a game that has no rules. Such a game is the world of Jackson Hand. Enter at your own risk. Some stories are definitely not pretty. The story of Jackson Hand is one of them.
