Saving Main Street And Its Retailers: The Facts You Must Know- and 3 Plans- to Protect Your Town and Its Employment and Business Opportunities, Property Values, Tax Base, and Standard of L Carl E. Person

Hundreds of thousands of small retail businesses in the United States are being put out of business by the major retail chains. The Main Streets in America's towns and villages are losing their businesses and customers to the chain retailers located in malls and stand-alone destinations outside of the town. Towns and villages and their residents lose high-paying employment and business opportunities, property values and the tax base go down, and community costs go up to pay for health and other services for the underpaid workers of the major retail chains. The problem, as seen by the author, an antitrust and civil rights lawyer, is the nation's failure to enforce the antitrust laws.

Another problem is that towns and villages, in their effort to bring in the moneys needed to pay for their increasing governmental services, lean heavily on human beings in the area with nuisance fines for parking, driving, standing, outdated inspection, registration and license, marijuana smoking, speed traps, dirty sidewalks - anything to help the town make its budget. Along the way, enforcement of law against non-humans (i.e., the major corporations) is virtually non-existent, probably because it is difficult to put a corporation in jail.

The author explains a novel but highly workable solution to these town and village problems. He describes how every town and village should appoint a "Town Attorney General" to act as a CIVIL PROSECUTOR against the corporations for their wrongdoing injuring the town and/or its residents, and use the proceeds of the civil litigation to provide FREE healthcare, FREE dental care, FREE prescription drugs, FREE broadband services and REDUCED local taxes for all residents.

An unintended but very real consequence would be the reduction of prosecutorial abuse in criminal prosecutions, because the new way to political success would be to obtain needed services for all residents rather than trying to put as many local residents as possible in jail, with high costs and few benefits to the community.

Any one town can do this without waiting for any other towns to act, and any one individual in the town can make it happen by running for office promising (realistically) to obtain healthcare and dental care for the town's residents. When this occurs, the residents of adjoining towns will demand the same, which in substance is a grass roots program for putting the genie of globalization (and outsourcing progeny) back into their bottle.
